001 – Finding the Balance in Branch Management: People, Product and Profitability

8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Jason Bader

This half day course is all about building a profitable branch location. Managers of these locations need to understand how to lead their team down the path of profitability. It starts with getting everyone on the same page so that the location can provide a superior customer service experience. At the same time, the manager needs to be accountable to the asset he has responsibility over. This is the balancing act of every effective branch manager. In this session, we will cover the basics of coaching, managing, and driving you way to profitable location growth.

002 – The Foundations of Leadership, “They” KNOW it when “They” SEE it!

1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Gail Alofsin

Wherever you are on the “leadership ladder,” this seminar will help you cultivate the characteristics, skills and vision you need to lead people. The Foundations of Leadership is a powerful leadership training seminar that focuses on developing skill sets that assist participants in becoming stronger, more confident and respected leaders and managers. NEW 003 – Feedback with Impact

8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Jill Geisler

Leadership and management expert Jill Geisler sees it everywhere she teaches: Employees are hungry for more and better feedback than they currently receive — and she’s on a quest to fill that gap. In this fun and interactive two-part adventure, you’ll discover practical tools you can put to use tomorrow.

Here’s the plan: Part One: Great Bosses Wear Feedback Glasses: How to double the amount of valuable feedback you provide your team, without adding hours to your day. Part Two: Tough Conversations, Top Outcomes: After you’ve become a rock star at giving positive feedback, it’s even easier to tackle those tough conversations you dread. We’ll deal with real life situations in real time demonstrations

004 – Know More! Selling

1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Sam Richter

Business and sales is all about personal relationships. When you know more about your prospects and clients, you’re better able to relate on a personal level, build more meaningful connections, identify triggering events, tailor offerings, and ensure relevancy. Most important, studies show that when you practice Sales Intelligence, you’ll win two times more business!

005 – SWAT Team Selling – Leading Your Team to a Competitive Advantage

8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Jim Pancero

This advanced one day program will focus on only one topic ... how to increase your team’s competitive advantage and profitability by increasing their strategic selling skills, tactical account planning and active coaching.

By attending this one day training program you will learn how to convert your “independent gunfighters” into a “Selling SWAT Team” with proven structures, processes and ongoing account coaching.

There will be time for attendee questions throughout the class. An extensive program workbook with sample coaching agenda and tracking forms will be provided to all attendees.

006 – Creating a Competitive Distinction

8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Tim Underhill

In today’s market, strategic customers want more than just the lowest price. They want a supplier (distributor or manufacturer) that can help them reduce their total operating cost, improve efficiency and achieve a competitive advantage with their customers. Suppliers that can provide solutions and sell them effectively can enjoy a distinction that creates a competitive advantage, and allows both manufacturers and distributors to charge a premium for their products and services.

This workshop focuses on:

- What initiatives your strategic customers are pursuing and why
- What distributors and manufacturers are doing to align with these strategic accounts
- Identifying the solutions you provide that can help you align yourself with your customer
- How you can better sell your solutions and become the supplier of choice
- Solution Selling focuses on how your solutions impact the customer’s Total Cost, Objectives, Risk and Performance
- How to identify who you should be selling to (who really cares about what you have to offer)
- How to approach the people who care about the solutions you have to offer

NOTE: this class does not focus on measuring Total Cost Savings. However, the Proving Total Cost Savings class the following day focuses solely on the measurement aspect of the value you add.

007 – Crossing the Chasm from Lifestyle Management to Professional Management

8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: J. Michael Marks

The vast majority of distribution businesses are run by a senior executive who is also the majority shareholder. These owner-operator businesses vary in size from small entrepreneurial firms to those with over one billion in revenue. Many lifestyle managed firms attempt to adopt professional management practices, often with limited success. This course is focused on helping the senior executive to make a distinction between the two approaches and to make an informed choice as to which approach is best in a given situation. For those deciding to make a change, this course provides participants with a high level roadmap to manage the change process along with a checklist of pitfalls and personal pain points for the owner. Much of the course is discussion with many examples of firms who have been successful, and not so successful, in the transition.

008 – Managing in Turbulent Times

1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: J. Michael Marks

This course is intended for managers who must make decisions with limited resources in highly uncertain and changing environments. The distribution industry, in many sectors, is in a race to the bottom on price with new non-traditional competitors like broad line box movers and Amazon. The consolidation trend is forcing distributors to realign their suppliers and manufacturers to realign their distributors. Throw in an aging workforce in transition and things get a bit interesting. The model that Peter Drucker put forward many years ago, under this same title, still holds true today. With an update for today’s challenges, this session examines decision making, scenario development, risk assessment, and tools that separate the direction of the tide from the size of the waves. This is a set of practical tools that can be used to decide whether to hire an inside rep or an outside rep, or when to pick up a competing supplier. Nothing in this environment is easy but a set of properly applied tools can help reduce the chaos.

009 – Differentiating Your Distribution Company – A Winning Strategy

8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: William R. McCleave, Jr., PH.D.

Distributors and their suppliers wrestle with a constantly changing world of big challenges and promising opportunities. As customers seek better supply alternatives and competitors increase their efforts, differentiation becomes essential for survival. Great distribution firms in the future will focus on customer and market arenas where they can provide world class performance and unique value.

These firms will be recognized by differences in at least four key areas: the strategic position they assume in the marketplace, by their message systems, their operational performance and by their value proof systems. Differentiation attempts are common among distributors but few receive high grades and customer recognition in all four of these interlinked areas. Many past efforts have led to confusion through complexity.

Understanding the dimensions of differentiation, benchmarking high performance firms, and following a process to significantly enhance achievement in these four areas, will build sustainable customer partnerships and market leadership for distributors who want to be different!

010 – How DO They Do That: Secret Tech Weapons for Work and Home

NEW 011 – Women Mean Business
1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Judy Hoberman

Don't be fooled by the name, as this is not a women only presentation. Judy speaks to companies on the reality that the more women you sell to, the more business you close because women mean business. Women are no longer a niche market; they are responsible for 85% of all consumer purchasing decisions and are 50% of the work force. Having a good representation of women on your team will have a positive impact on your bottom line. Participants will learn the multiple definitions of women mean business.

MONDAY, MARCH 6

012 – Preparing for 2020: The Manager's Guide to Dealing with the New Workplace
8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Kathryn A. Newton, Ph.D.

Managing good talent has never been easy, but the rapid pace of change is going to make this even more challenging. Is your organization ready for it? Consider a few changes that employers of the future will have to deal with:

- Five highly diverse generations working in organizations side-by-side with vastly different values, beliefs, and technology skill sets
- Growing international business with needs for cross cultural communication and business etiquette
- A new e-economy bringing with it a vastly different way of doing business
- Integrating innovation into the culture will be key to developing competitive advantage
- Building a sustainable and green workplace will be essential to attracting the future workforce.

Many of these trends can already be seen, and others are newly emerging ... But all will have a dramatic impact on the manager of the future. Learn what these new trends will mean for your company, and what you can do now to prepare for them.

013 – Decide: Work Smarter, Reduce Your Stress, and Lead by Example

1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Steve McClatchy

What shapes a leader's outcome, career and life? The criteria we all use for making decisions drive our performance and our effectiveness as leaders. Great decision-making habits yield a lifetime of achievements and success. Poor habits keep us stressed, frustrated, and forever out of balance.

014 – Leaders are not Born. They are Built.

8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Randy Disharoon

General Patton declared, "Lead me, follow me, or get out of my way!" Designed for company Executives and Sales/Branch Managers, this highly interactive course introduces the four phases of leadership development – Build Within, Build Around, Build Up and Build Out. Participants will leave empowered to communicate a compelling vision, create the high performance culture, and sustain the winning pace.

015 – Branch & Operations Effectiveness for Distributors, Part 1
1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Mike Workman

As merchant wholesalers, the functions of distribution are well defined. They include physical distribution, operations, purchasing, sales, and various forms of service. Branch management historically focused on cost control, inventory control, technology implementation and utilization, multiple and varied sales functions, supplier interface, scheduling, and people development and management — including recruitment, retraining, and team building.

Today and tomorrow, all those functions remain relevant, but priorities change with strategies, output changes with tactics, and uncertainty amplifies the manager's decision-making abilities.

In this first session we'll examine the interaction of the basic functions, methods for prioritizing and measuring branch output, techniques for becoming more effective at demand creation and demand response, and provide options for personal and professional growth.

016 – Improving the Bottom Line
8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Albert D. Bates, Ph.D.

Only about 10% of all companies make as much profit as they should. This is true across almost all industries. The "Improving the Bottom Line" session will demonstrate how to improve your financial results – not just a little, but a lot. The program emphasizes two essential concepts: "Planning Profits First" and "Setting Profit Priorities." The first of these topics will focus on treating profit as the first element of the plan that should be developed each year. In most cases profits are simply viewed as what is left over after everything else has been covered. As a result, profits are never adequate. With a profit-first approach, all of the other elements of the planning process will revolve around reaching that profit goal.

The second topic relates to putting effort where there is the greatest potential pay-off. Too many firms waste their time and energy in areas that do not dramatically improve results. For example, this program will help you understand whether it is better to raise margins or raise sales and by how much. As a result, you will be able to focus your efforts in proportion to the potential return.

017 – Inside Sales 101
8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Paul Reilly

High-performance companies use analytic techniques to target high-potential accounts and identify market share opportunities. This session covers industry best practices for building a market plan – one based on market segmentation and analysis, share metrics and predictive lead generation techniques — to drive top and bottom-line revenue.

This half-day workshop delivers the tools plus the how-to guide to significantly improve your company's sales and marketing process by identifying where to focus limited resources on the highest potential leads, prospects and opportunities. This hands-on session covers each of the fundamental building blocks needed to identify and target the highest potential accounts, customer segments and territories to increase wallet share with existing customers and significantly increase conversion rates for prospects.

018 – The Power of the Spoken Word
1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Steve Boyd

This course will help the participant identify bad listening habits and learn active listening skills. The participant will also learn techniques to organize and deliver presentations as well as learn how to hold the attention of an audience. Handling the question and answer period will also be addressed. The participant will in addition develop skills in persuasion.

019 – Mergers & Acquisitions: How They Affect the Competitive Landscape

8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructors: J. Michael Marks and Jim Miller

This half-day morning course is designed for distributor and manufacturer executives who are competing in industries that are undergoing industry consolidations. The course is designed to help executives understand how these activities change the competitive landscape. Bigger is often not better, but it is always different. The course starts with a dive into changes driven by distributor M&A activity. The session will provide ample time for group discussions around two perspectives. First, how do you compete in your market when one of your major competitors is acquired? The second focus is what are the best practices for individual managers when your firm is acquired?

The course is an introduction that provides a broad perspective on the economics and how they change in a market as a result of M&A activity. The course will examine distributor alternatives when a major supplier becomes an acquirer or an acquiree. The examination will include best and worst practices used by suppliers when integrating an acquisition and how it affects their distribution channel.

NEW 020 – Big Data Analytics for the Wholesale-Distributor
1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: J. Michael Marks

This course is focused on practical examples and useful models to improve decision making with big data for today's distributor. It is about how to start, not theory, and it does not require a new software package to play. Part one starts with a list of challenges and how to mine and analyze data to gain insight. There will be a focus on generating organic growth. Part two is to help discern what customers have been telling you by their actions and transaction history. Gaining insight provides opportunities to improve the customer experience.

021 – Proving Total Cost Savings
8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Tim Underhill

What is the one thing that every customer is focused on right now ... reducing their operating costs. Manufacturers and distributors both add value (save the customer money) through the products and services they provide the end-user customer, but being able to show the dollar savings these value added solutions provide is often difficult. This workshop focuses on developing the skill set for you to demonstrate the total cost savings you provide your customers by:

- Understanding the business case for you to document the savings your solutions provide: Increased Sales, Improved Margins, and Customer Loyalty
- Identifying how your solutions impact your customer's profitability (how you save them money beyond price)

- Learning how to measure the saving
- Working through three case studies on measuring and reporting savings
- Discussing how to implement a value added documentation initiative within your company
- Reviewing value added savings reports
- Learning how to make Total Cost Savings proposals

But more importantly, we will also work through exercises for identifying the value you add, the costs your solutions impact, how to measure the savings your solutions provide and how/where to get the data for proving your value.

022 – Mastering the Five Most Critical Skills for Selling Success
8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Jim Pancero

How much business has your team lost because of weak or inconsistent selling skills? How many in your sales team believe "Experienced = trained?" Everyone's been through your entire product training, when was the last time you invested any time coaching and training to improve your team's persuasive selling skills? In this information-intensive program you will learn the five most critical selling skills and structures that can best strengthen your team's competitive advantage and selling success. We will walk through each skill or structure discussing how it works, its value and contribution to selling success, and how you can bring that skill/structure back to your sales team. Your detailed program workbook includes exercises and free sources of training videos to help you improve these skills within your team.

The goal of this class is to give you the selling skills, structures and messaging awareness to help you better define your team's selling structures and processes. Once you have defined structures and processes you can achieve consistency. Once you have consistency you can achieve direction. Once you have direction you can identify specific areas to improve. And once you can identify specific areas to improve you can coach and lead your team to a competitive advantage and increased sales.

TUESDAY, MARCH 7
023 – Branch & Operations Effectiveness for Distributors, Part 2
8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Michael E. Workman, Ph.D.

As merchant wholesalers, the functions of distribution are well defined. They include physical distribution, operations, purchasing, sales, and various forms of service. Branch management historically focused on cost control, inventory control, technology implementation and utilization, multiple and varied sales functions, supplier interface, scheduling, and people development and management—including recruitment, retraining, and team building.

In this second session we'll continue examining the interaction of the basic functions, methods for prioritizing and measuring branch output, techniques for becoming more effective at demand creation and demand response, and provide options for personal and professional growth.

024 – Stop Marketing Like It's 1999!
1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Bob DeStefano

For generations, distributors and manufacturers relied heavily on face-to-face selling as the primary driver for new business growth. While the role of the salesperson is still critical, your old tactics are no longer enough to compete in this rapidly evolving marketplace. The changing face and needs of your customers, combined with the rise of online and mobile technologies in the workplace, have rendered your old tactics inadequate. If you're still relying on marketing strategies from past decades, your company's success may be in question for the next decade. It's time to step up and take action. But what should you do? This course will provide you with a roadmap to prepare your marketing and sales teams for success in the connected world.

025 – Sales Performance for Distributors
8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: John Monoky

This dynamic, interactive and intensive program focuses on developing sales organizations with the flexibility, effectiveness and efficiency needed to thrive in a customer-oriented and turbulent environment. The successful sales leader has discovered that integrating the sales function with the company's market plans increases productivity and maximizes profits. The principles presented in this program for developing a strategically oriented sales team are proven to improve sales performance in organizations of all sizes and in different markets and industries. An organization's ability to meet its business objectives depends on the ability of the sales leaders to create a competent and motivated sales force that quickly adapts to changing customer demands consistent with your organization's market focus and customer priorities. This session focuses on auditing and redesigning your sales team to insure successful performance.

026 – How to Get Paid for Service Value
8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: D. Bruce Merrifield, Jr.

Increasing margin-percentages for your services is a necessary, old and tired "objective". Attend this course to learn how to also measure customer net-profitability to then:

- Segment customers into niches and service them differently with: varying service metrics; selling methods and economic terms.
- And, transform unprofitable customers that have too many small, gross-margin-dollar picks and orders that don't cover the dollar-costs of your service-people process. You can't raise prices enough to make these accounts profitable.

Get a total understanding of "Line-Item, Profit Analytics Management" to get breakthrough results for your company.

027 – Planning and Managing the Distributorship for Greater Profits
8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Don A. Rice, Ph.D.

Attendees in this session will learn how to immediately identify and manage the six most important things that improve the profitability of both the company and their individual branch, the five non-financial things that have to be done in a company that will determine whether or not you will reach these profit goals, and what measureable events determine the Return on Investment and how the actions of the owners, managers and the associates impact each. This is a reality check for your company. If you are already reaching these financial goals this will provide positive reinforcement for what you are already doing; if you are not, then you will learn how to do it.

028 – Hiring the Right Salespeople 8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Joe Ellers

Most organizations struggle with hiring salespeople. A lot of hires that look great just don't pan out. One reason: we've got a "random" approach to hiring that's going to produce random results. Another reason: we've got some beliefs that just don't match with reality.

This program helps you to create a clear picture of what you really want — and then go to the right places to find the people that match. We also provide you with guidelines that make the process more "formal," and therefore, more "repeatable."

By the end of the program, you will have a simple list of "To Dos" that will make your next hires more effective.

029 – Improving Profitability Thru Joint Sales Calls 1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Joe Ellers

The joint sales call is the only "quality" check that exists for sales managers. You can have a great strategy, a great plan, and trained people and still not get the results you want because the "field execution" is just not there. The only way to see if the right things are taking place is to go to the field (or to the inside sales desk) and find out.

In this program, we will discuss the proper ways to make joint calls with both field and inside sales professionals. As with other sales approaches, the goal is to make this into a repeatable process so that we can help the team to improve, over time.

030 – Value-Added Selling 8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Paul Reilly

Value-Added Selling is a content-rich message of hope. It is a philosophy as well as a go-to-market strategy. When salespeople adopt the Value-Added Selling philosophy and apply its strategies and tactics, they will compete aggressively and profitably in their markets.

Attendees will learn how to change the conversation from price to value, frame exciting and positive sales messages, and get credit for their value-added.

031 – Shift Happens — How to build an E-Commerce platform for Distribution and Wholesale 8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Justin King

The way your customers purchase your products is changing. New competition is popping up every day around the internet promising to sell YOUR products to YOUR customers. And yet, there is a reason customers buy from you today that will allow you to compete online and offline. In this half day workshop you will learn practical methods for creating an eCommerce site for any shape or size business. You will learn how to build requirements and select the right software. In addition, you will learn how to get current customers to actually use your site. The workshop promises to be interactive, entertaining and extremely educational.

032 – The Power of Focus: Strategic Planning for Distributors 1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Steve Deist

This course will show you how to develop and execute a successful strategy using tools specifically designed for distributors. We will cover the key elements of strategy, including market assessment and positioning, strategic prioritization, addressing critical constraints, management rhythms and metrics. We will show the right and wrong ways to approach strategic planning, and provide examples of world class distributor strategies.

Key takeaways include:

- Why a strategic approach is the best way to achieve sustained competitive advantage
- The right and wrong ways to approach strategic planning
- How you can become indispensable as your company's strategy guru

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 8

033 – Personnel Productivity Improvement 8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Kathryn A. Newton, Ph.D.

Distribution is a people intensive business and one of the most important challenges for managers in today's tough business environment is enhancing employee productivity. You will learn how to take a "systems" viewpoint of the organization; learning tools to identify productivity gaps in your firm and working towards a balance for employee activities such as hiring and training, compensation, performance evaluation and employee development. Learn how these elements should work together effectively toward building a productive and loyal workforce. Topics will include how to improve hiring, firing, and motivating employees, leadership skills, as well as practical tips for managing change and conflict, and dealing with "difficult employees."

034 – Creating a Winning Marketing Plan 8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Daniel McQuiston, Ph.D.

Distributors of today must do more with less. With the ever-present demand on limited resources, distributors must be able to make informed choices on how to allocate their assets. This is especially true in a distributor's marketing effort as there are any number of directions the firm can go.

In this session Dr. McQuiston will outline his 10-Step Marketing plan for distributors. This plan covers such aspects as formulating a mission statement, doing a SWOT analysis, setting financial and marketing objectives, and then combining the elements of the marketing mix to reach those objectives.

035 – Increasing Your Sales Force's 'EQ' 1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Daniel McQuiston, Ph.D.

We are all familiar with the term Intelligence Quotient — IQ — which has traditionally indicated how intellectually 'smart' you are. Yet, we all also have an 'EQ' — an 'Emotional Quotient' — which indicates how 'emotionally smart' you are. People with a high EQ are very self-aware and are able to build rapport and solid, productive relationships with others.

In this session Dr. McQuiston will talk about the four basic social styles which individuals have and then talk about the five factors that make up a person's 'EQ.' He will then talk about how combining an understanding of a person's social style with a high EQ can lead to much more constructive relationships with co-workers and a more productive sales effort

036 – Negotiation Skills for Distributors 8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Michael Schatzki

This seminar/workshop teaches you how to improve your bottom line profitability. The focus is on sales, purchasing and other negotiations that will have a measurable impact on your profits. The Negotiation Dynamics System provides a powerful set of tools that will give you a real negotiating edge at the same time maintaining positive, long-term relationships. You will learn how to effectively manage the negotiating process, read what the other party is doing, adjust negotiating tactics to each situation, achieve the outcomes that you need and still create a win-win for everyone.

037 – New Process of Distribution Sales Management 8:00 am – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Joe Ellers

For years, both sales management and sales have been presented as "art forms." The underlying assumption was that you were either a "born" salesperson/manager — or you weren't. Today, we recognize that there are many specific processes used by the most successful sales organizations and that they can be learned and used in any organization.

This program provides a "soup to nuts" look at sales management from the process side. Beginning at how to put together a sales plan, the course rapidly moves through all of the major elements of sales management, including: how to hire salespeople, how to compensate them, a structured approach to sales.

038 – Managing the Account Portfolio 8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: John Monoky

All customers are not created equal but all deserve a meaningful definition of value that satisfies the needs of both the customer and the distributor. This session is a pragmatic approach to segment and align your sales and service organization to create value and make money from your key, target, maintenance and why bother customers. It also looks at the requirements to take care of the unique needs of your firm's strategic accounts.

039 – Vital Planning Disciplines for Sales Professionals

1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Don Buttrey

Previously high levels of business typically distracted salespeople from proactive activities. Perhaps we were responding to quote requests and putting out fires. Now it is time to proactively SELL and be "order makers" — not "order takers!"

This requires three vital planning disciplines:

- Territory Planning
- Account Strategic Planning
- Pre-call Tactical Planning

040 – Troubleshooting Inventory Replenishment

8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Jon Schreibfeder

Every distributor has to answer two questions when replenishing inventory: When to reorder products and how much to order. In this half day session we will explore how to ensure that your company is using "best in class" practices to ensure that you consistently meet or exceed customers' expectations of product availability. Topics will include accurate demand forecasting, dealing with unreliable lead times and suppliers, evaluating vendor offers, when to establish a central warehouse or distribution center, and the special challenges of overseas purchasing.

041 – Effective Warehouse Operations

1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Jon Schreibfeder

Every distributor has one or more warehouses. But few realize that efficient and effective warehouse operations are a key element to success and profitability. In this half day session we will explore how a few simple practices will help you ensure that the on-hand quantities of stocked products are consistently accurate and that you efficiently store items in order to minimize the cost of filling orders. Included will be a presentation of a cost/benefit analysis of implementing new material-handling technology.

042 – Marketing Strategies

8:00 am – 11:30 am

Instructor: Steve Deist

This course will cover the fundamentals of marketing, and how to develop and execute a market based strategy. Key topics include: market sizing and opportunity assessment; segmentation, targeting and positioning (STP); setting corporate priorities based on market gaps; and the role of a true product marketing function within a distribution firm. The course will include a deep dive into using multiple sales channels and structures, including traditional outside and inside sales, hybrid sales reps, tele-sales, specialists, "wholetailing" and web based sales and marketing functions. The content is based on the instructor's extensive real-world experience working with world-class distributors and manufacturers.

043 – Pricing Strategies

1:00 pm – 4:30 pm

Instructor: Steve Deist

Improved pricing practices can be one of the most effective ways to increase bottom line results quickly, but pricing changes are often complex and risky. This course will outline the steps required to implement a world-class pricing program that will grow margins while managing short and long-term risk. Key areas of focus include analytics (internal pricing practices, transaction analysis, elasticity, sensitivity patterns, etc.), strategies and tactics (such as commodity leader, value based, market basket, functional discounting), management tools (metrics, feedback loops, incentives) and implementation best practices. A properly designed pricing strategy must be based on customer segments, so this session provides an analytical framework for effective segmentation. This course will show how to obtain permanent benefits and continuous improvement.
